This well known water and steam hot has been fitted out with the latest improved roller method for making flour, which is as white and pure as can be made. The French Berry is still used for making milk, which is second to no grade turned out in this State. A crusher has been attached to the mill. The individual members of the firm are Messrs. W. H. Cleland and David Cleland.

My Motto, "To Please Our Patrons."

Attention, Candidates—Concrete Crossings—Our Kentucky Falls to Follow Daville's Lead.

The item last Monday's Advocate concerning the concrete crossing under construction in Danville, has excited a great deal of attention. A number of exchanges have reproduced it entirely, while others commented on it and in some cases to the detriment of the concrete crossing. It is not our purpose to comply with requests for copies of the article, the following is reproduced as it contains the most of the story.

Many persons predicted that the concrete crossings would not last, and the majority of them jumped to the conclusion that they were much more expensive than the rock crossings. This idea is incorrect. The old rock crossings running from Kinross & Co.'s to the opposite side of Main street was laid at an expense of $100,000. The concrete crossing substituted in its cost $50,000, a difference of $50,000 in favor of the concrete crossing. It is four feet wide, smooth and an ornament to the street. The rock crossings, when well laid, lasted from five to seven years, but would get in pretty bad repair after five years. If not properly laid, they would last but a few years.

Now as to the durability of the concrete. Mr. Welch, one of the oldest and best of the city council, who has had much experience with street improvements, heard last spring that the concrete crossings had been laid in Paris with splendid results, and he set out for there to personally investigate the matter. He found that the concrete crossings had been laid in Paris with splendid results, and he set out for there to personally investigate the matter.

Mr. Welch, who was Mayor of Paris, was informed that the concrete crossings had been laid in Paris with splendid results, and he set out for there to personally investigate the matter. Bears Again

A correspondent of the Richmond CLIMAX from Wallington, Ky., who signs himself, E. W. Baker, takes the Democrat to task for our recent article on the Moxil School at Berea, and the superintendent at Camp Nelson.

He writes, "some of the reports which have graduated at Berea, accuse the President, W. G. Berry, of using his influence surreptitiously to 'root out' the school." He admits that the number of negro students is far below that of the whites. He doesn't tell that John G. Fee built another church for his school out of the moneys of the first established. It is plain that Berry is free from the negro of the school is feeling himself from those which would be democratic.

The idea that Fee battled for the education of whites and negroes, makes it plain that Berry is not a democrat. He is a white man, and he is a white man. He is a white man, and he is a white man. He is a white man, and he is a white man.

The residents of Walnut street were terrified last Thursday night by a man who walked up and down the square, brandishing a razor, with blood streaming from his throat. The woman with whom he was fighting, was fighting with him, and he was fighting with him.

There was a large and respected family, and he is himself highly regarded. But the spectacle! With a gaping wound four inches across the throat, the flesh on the lower side dropping like a red curtain from the gashy wound from which the blood flowed in a stream over his entire breast making it a vast expanse of red, glossy in the sunlight.

He was sent for and four soon arrived, but only Messrs. Pines, Broadhead, and John Berry and John Berry, after a long and exhausting struggle, at last killed the man. He was fighting with him, and he was fighting with him.

Will Try Concrete Crossings.
Danville, following Paris, is going to put down concrete street crossings. They have been tested in the latter city seven years, and not only are more durable than rock crossings but cost about half as much. We have noticed this matter highly spoken of in several exchanges, says the Lancaster Record. It will certainly bear looking into.

Daville Fair Abandoned.
The plan to have a fair in Danville this fall has fallen through. A guarantee fund of $1,000 had been subscribed and it looked for awhile like a fine old-fashioned exhibition would be gotten up, but the promoters of the scheme and the owners of the fair grounds could not agree upon terms for the use of the premises and the proposition was abandoned.
